

OUTSIDE STALINGRAD

OAF Scenario 33.3

110720

Kietskaya, 120 miles northwest of Stalingrad, November 29, 1942: Operation Uranus, the Russian counteroffensive falls on the flanks of the German Sixth army. The weak satellite armies were ill equipped for the task.

BOARD CONFIGURATION:

VICTORY CONDITIONS: The Russian player wins if he exits 15 squads off the south edge by turn 7. An AFV which exits with all functional armament is worth 2 squads, otherwise it is worth 1 squad. An AFV crew which exits on foot is worth 1/2 squad.

SPECIAL SCENARIO RULES:

OAF 33.3.1: TERRAIN: All orchard hexes are considered open ground; all buildings are wooden.

OAF 33.3.2: WEATHER: Falling Snow (111.5) with winds Gusting (115.6) from the east.

OAF 33.3.3: Russian 628s have snow smocks. (COD 111.81) Any troops or vehicles specified as wearing snow smocks or special winter camouflage during any snow scenario receive a +1 DRM when fired on by infantry or direct ordnance Fire (TO HIT DR) unless they are occupying a building or bunker. The T34s do not have special winter camouflage and do not benefit from having 628s as passengers.

OAF 33.3.4: All Rumanian SWs and guns are considered Rumanian although German gun counters must be used. Rumanian crews 227s (with a broken side of 6) are not in the original COI game set although they do exist in VSQI (as do the missing Rumanian Gun counters). German crews can be substituted for the 227s but play with the ratings stated above. Note the 47ATG lacks a gun shield. Battlefield Integrity does not apply.
